

Informing

- Every human being is wonderfully created. We are not just a physical body with mind and emotions – we also have a spiritual dimension.
- Each person is equipped with a unique combination of experiences, talents, skills and values, which can be very potent when aligned with the right work.
- There is a purpose for each life's work... both paid and unpaid... each of us has a unique and significant contribution to make to the world.

Inspiring

- Engaging presenters will share key lessons learnt in their vocational journeys which means that you'll benefit from their hard work, their successes (and failures), giving you an inspirational leap ahead.

Connecting

- There are options to be connected with others within a social media group to enable real-time feedback & encouragement during the programmes and after the course.
- We'll endeavour to connect you with appropriate mentors if you choose.

Recognising

- We will work with you to: identify your values, aspirations, talents and skills; and help you figure out the way that you're wired. We'll help you to see how these attributes align with various vocations. These will give you powerful indications of what vocational tracks you may be suited to.

Designing

- Our courses will introduce you to many practical tools to assist you in your vocational journey. We'll help you to design your own written vocational plan with realistic 'milestone' objectives; which means that you'll be able to identify what your next steps will likely be.

Activating

- We will encourage you to be active; and help you to know how to take the 'next important steps' in pursuing your vocational goals. We'll recommend that you set about learning all that you can in your area of interest and help you join an industry network. We also believe that it is highly valuable for everyone to get involved in helping others as part of one's vocational development.

Communicating

- This is crucial for making progress in your vocational journey, so we will ensure you are familiar with key communication principles. We will also show you how to construct an excellent CV; and provide training on important job interview do's and don'ts.

Celebrating

- At the conclusion of selected multiday programmes - family, friends and alumni will come together to celebrate with you and other course participants.
